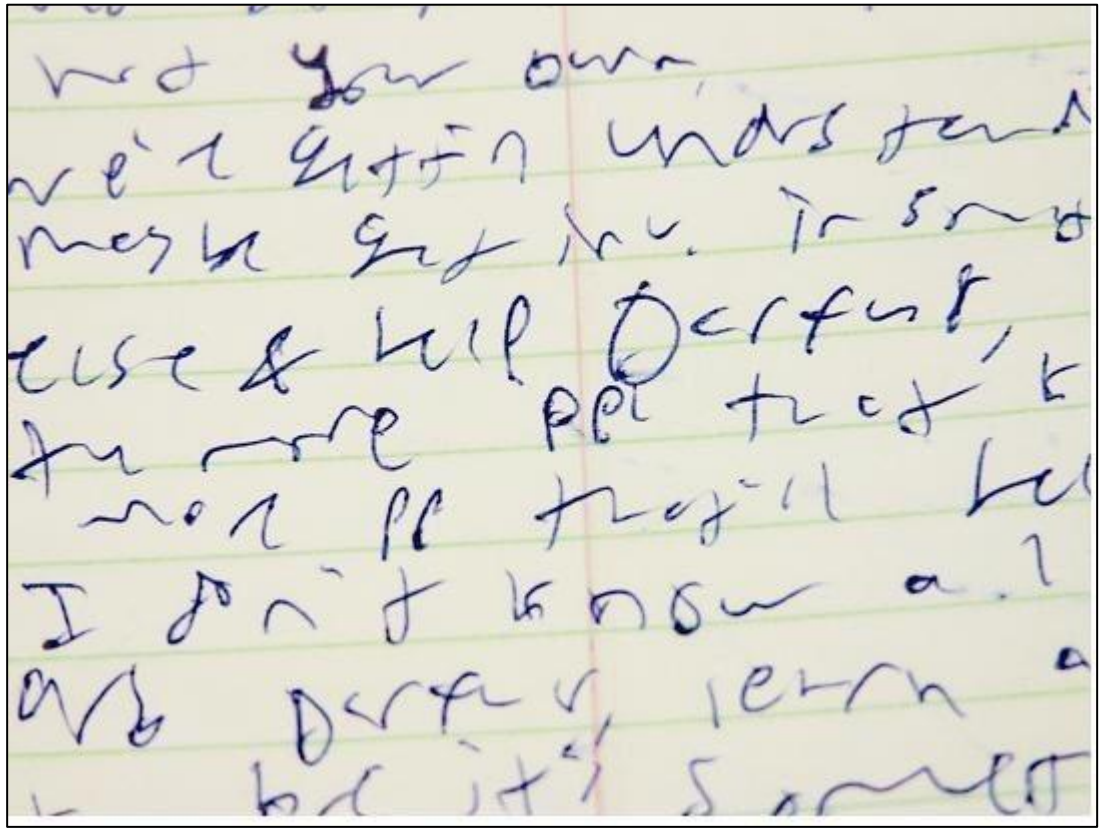
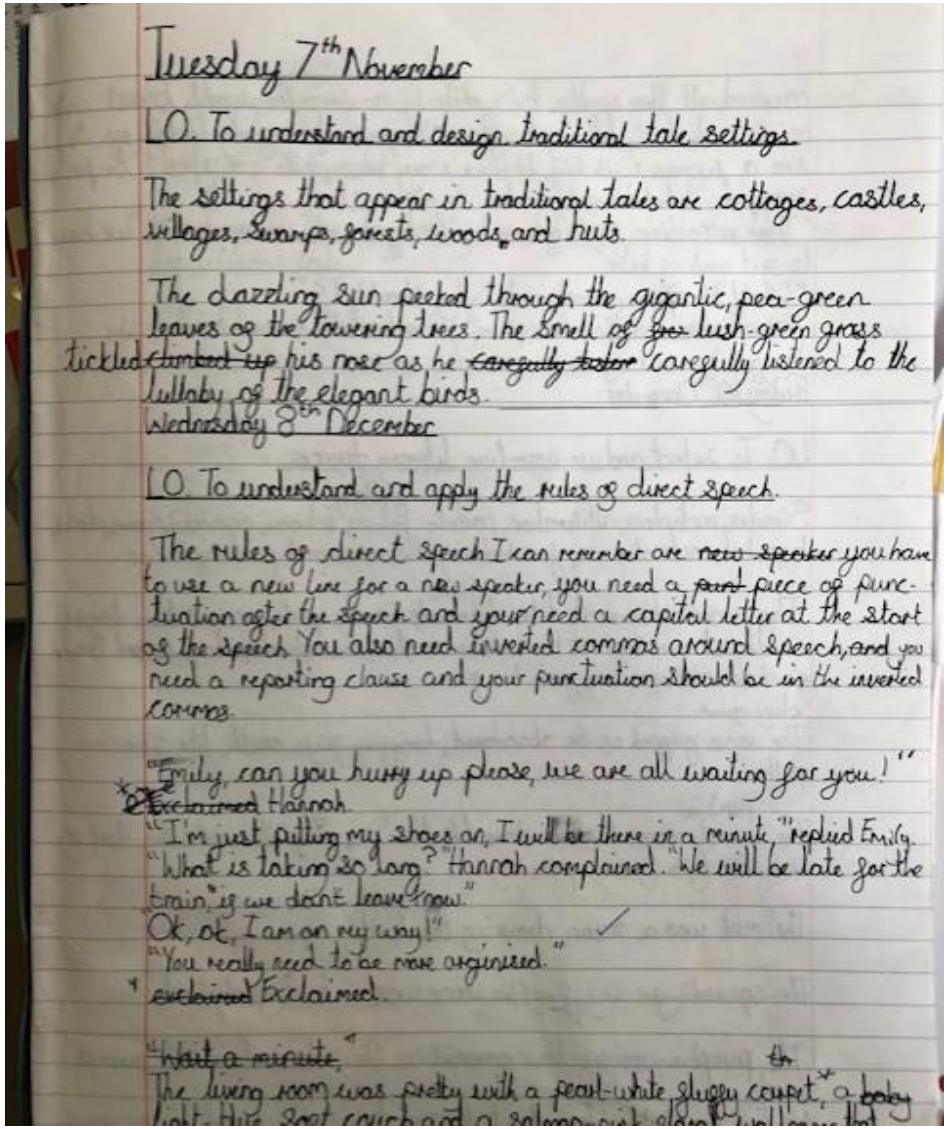
DOES PRESENTATION MATTER?

DOES PRESENTATION MATTER?

DOES PRESENTATION MATTER?





Tuesday 7th November

L.O. To understand and design traditional tale settings

The settings that appear in traditional tales are cottages, castles, villages, swamps, forests, woods and huts.

The dazzling sun peeked through the gigantic, pea-green leaves of the towering trees. The smell of ~~for~~ lush-green grass tickled ~~clambed up~~ his nose as he ~~carefully listen~~ carefully listened to the lullaby of the elegant birds.

Wednesday 8th December

L.O. To understand and apply the rules of direct speech.

The rules of direct speech I can remember are ~~new speaker~~ you have to use a new line for a new speaker, you need a ~~part~~ piece of punctuation after the speech and your need a capital letter at the start of the speech. You also need inverted commas around speech, and you need a reporting clause and your punctuation should be in the inverted commas.

"Emily, can you hurry up please, we are all waiting for you!"
~~Exclaimed~~ Hannah.
"I'm just putting my shoes on, I will be there in a minute," replied Emily.
"What is taking so long?" Hannah complained. "We will be late for the train if we don't leave now."
Ok, ok, I am on my way!"
"You really need to be more organised."
~~exclaimed~~ Exclaimed.

~~"Wait a minute."~~
The living room was pretty with a pearl-white shaggy carpet, a ~~baby~~

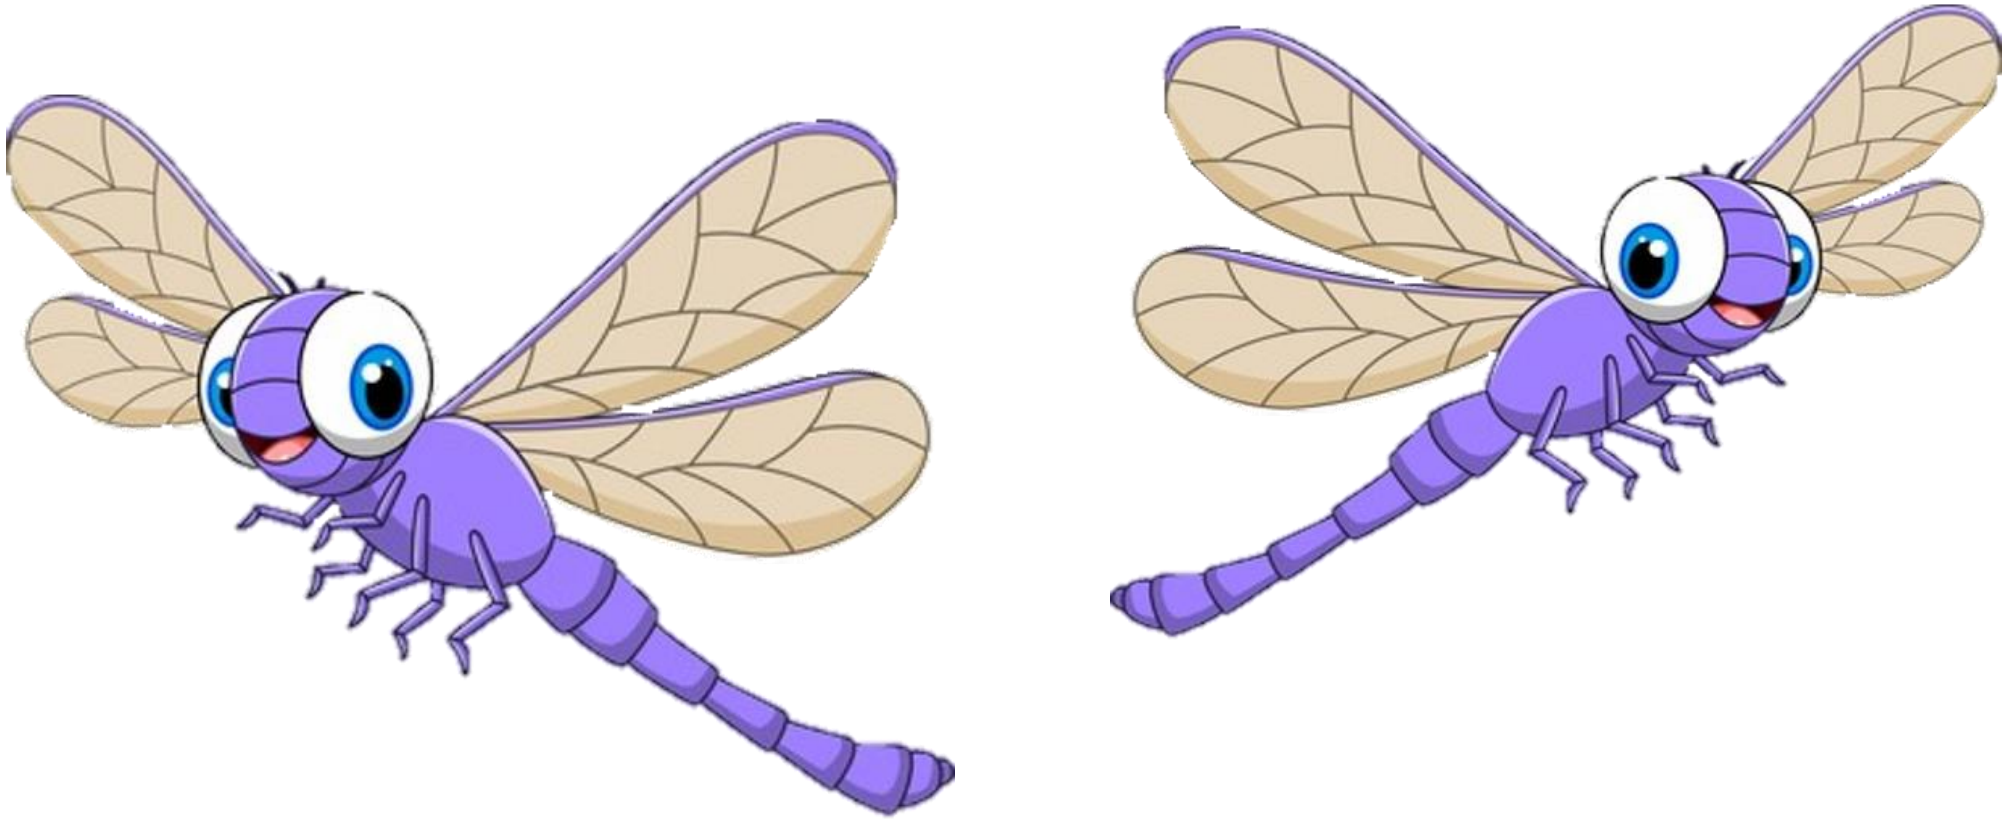
AND HOW ABOUT THE...



A MORNING IN ANCIENT EGYPT...

"Kyla looked out of her mud brick house and saw the Great Pyramid. She heard people saying "Hello" and "How are you doing?"
She also heard the noise from the sheep and the chicken. She could feel the hot sun on her face and sand on the ground.
Kyla felt very happy because she liked to see the Sphinx in the morning.
She smelt bread baking and it made her feel hungry."

A MORNING IN ANCIENT EGYPT...

Delilah excitedly stepped from her home to see markets full of people bustling around.

She browsed a stall and felt a silky tunic in her hands.

Suddenly, she remembered that her mother had given her some tasty grapes to eat on her journey. They were delicious!
